

TOD VISIONING!

HOW DO WE GET THERE FROM HERE?

What are the mobility issues in Culver City that matter to you? What measures can we take that will keep Culver City in the forefront of the world's most livable cities? If you walk, bike, drive, or take the bus or the train, you are the best source for informing a vision of Culver City's future. Culver City's TOD Visioning project team wants to work with you as we define that vision.

Join us in a series of public workshops. We begin with a variety of events designed to hear you out, and to have you show to us the places and situations where mobility is a concern, whatever your preferred way of getting around. We will hear your concerns, and also share with you examples from other cities where people have had similar concerns. Then we will work together to design approaches to address your concerns in Culver City through a range of means, from physical projects to policy directions.

We hope to see you at the workshops and look forward to working together!

NOTE: For those who attended the March 23 workshop and who may have received a schedule of events, please note that several future workshop dates have changed to avoid conflicts with other City meetings.
